

ABSTRACT

An antenna comprises a lower section, an upper section, and a junction connecting them to each other. The junction has a key and a keyway to permit joining them only one way. In one embodiment, a whip assembly is joined to a mount assembly by a keyed junction.